The market was particularly robust across most submarkets with rising sales and prices, and falling inventory. The single-family market saw year over year gains in all three price trend indicators and an uptick in sales respectively from the prior-year quarter. Single-family median sales price hasn't shown a year over year decline in four quarters, and the number of sales has risen year over year for three straight quarters. The condo market showed more pronounced trends than the single-family market. All three condo price trend indicators saw double-digit gains over the prior year without being skewed by average sales size. Condo median sales price jumped 13.5% to $147,500 from the prior-year quarter for the sixteenth time without a decline. Sales for both property types followed the same pattern of growth. The number of single-family sales rose 6.2% to 291, and the number of condo sales jumped 16.3% to 643, respectively, from the year-ago quarter. Most luxury price trend indicators across property types moved higher. The luxury price per square foot of a single-family rose 5.5% to $439, while the luxury price per square foot for a condo surged 48.9% to $530.

LUXURY

- Single-family marketing time and negotiability expanded
- Single-family price trend indicators showed mixed results as listing inventory declined
- Luxury condo price trend indicators surged as listing inventory fell sharply year over year
- Highest priced condo sale set a new record by nearly doubling from the year-ago quarter
